ESSAY

26 : The title of clinical social worker has special significance in some states. Discuss the reasons for this special significance.

Correct Answer : Answers may vary. The title of clinical social worker has special significance in some states because an advanced license is labeled as “clinical.” In such states, licensing provisions are such that diagnosis and treatment of mental health difficulties requires that the provider have a clinical license or be under the supervision of a person with such a license. Achievement of such a license is based on completion of specified hours in training and supervision as well as completion of an exam. Holding such a license then becomes a required credential for social workers to be eligible for third-party reimbursement for delivering psychotherapy or counseling.

27 : It is well documented that African American children are overrepresented in the child welfare system in the United States. Briefly explain the meaning of this statement. What would a social worker do while functioning as an organizational assessor in such a situation?

Correct Answer : Answers may vary. The fact that African American children are overrepresented in the child welfare system means that a greater proportion of Caucasian children are returned to their parents after child welfare assessments. The reasons for this disproportion are complex and not tied to any one factor. Engaging in the organizational assessor role, social workers in child welfare would examine the decisions made in the system. They would then try to make sure that resources such as family group decision making are especially available to families of color as that resource is promising as a way to safely preserve families.

28 : Social workers serve as consultants to members of other professions and to other social workers in need of their special expertise. List three examples where social workers act as consultants to other professionals.

Correct Answer : Answers may vary. Social workers serve as consultants to members of other professions and to other social workers in need of their special expertise. Following are three examples where social workers may provide help to other professionals:They may provide consultation to school personnel who need assistance in understanding and coping with problem students.They may provide consultation to health care providers who seek assistance in understanding a patient’s family or ethnic and cultural factors.They may provide consultation to court staff regarding matters that bear on child custody decisions and decisions about parole and probation.
